One Dark Night.

The night was extremely dark, for the stars that twinkled in the black sky had no power to light the dull earth.

Nervously, with a beating heart, a young girl hurried down a country lane, a parcel in her hands. She was London bred, and had the town fear of country lanes, and, if she did not think "every bush an officer," dreaded that every bush might conceal a thief. Eveline Moreton was employed by a large London mourning establishment, and she had been sent down according to the advertisement to "fit" a recently bereaved family. If the way was dark and gloomy, Eveline's thoughts were dark and gloomy, too. The poor child was tired and hungry, for her train had been detained for two hours by an accident on the line. She had been told to take a cab, but there was no cab to be had, and North Lodge was "quite a three-mile walk," the sleepy porter had informed her. His directions had been clear enough. Eveline was to keep straight along the dull gloomy lane, till she reached the high road, when North Lodge would be the third house. Oh how she wished the walk at an end; it was so dark and dull and lonely. Eveline paused suddenly, and looked down the path she had to pursue with frightened eyes, for she distinctly heard footsteps. If she had yielded to her first impulse of childish terror she would have tried to find some hiding-place behind the hedge; but ashamed of her fears, she walked on with a low nervous laugh. The footsteps approached rapidly, and soon a dark figure came in sight. Eveline shrank back to get out of its way, but it moved also, so that it was still right in front of her.

"Good night!" said a gruff voice.

"Good night!" repeated Eveline; for, as Charles Dickens said, we are never so polite as when we are frightened.

"It is a dark night for you to be out in, went on the man. Have you such a thing as a copper about you to give a poor fellow?"

Trembling Eveline took out her purse to look for a penny: as she did so, it was suddenly snatched out of her hand, Eveline gave a little cry of distress at the loss of the money; but she was too much alarmed to utter a single word of remonstrance. The man's burley figure still barred the way.

"Let me pass," she pleaded. "I have no jewelry. My purse was the only thing I had worth stealing; you have that, so pray let me go."

"Don't be in such a hurry, pretty one," said the man, with a course laugh, and he caught hold of her arm. "I want to speak to you."

"Oh! pray—pray—let me go," cried Eveline, dropping the parcel, for her poor little heart was beating almost to suffocation.

"Not till I've given you a kiss," he said insolently. "You are a very pretty girl."

And he drew her nearer to him, so that his rough beard touched her cheek. Eveline pushed him from her with all her force, uttering scream after scream. Her terror gave her sudden strength, and for quite a minute she kept him at arm's length.

"You little vixen!" he exclaimed with an oath. "I'll have that kiss in spite of all your your struggles; I will by—"

He never finished the sentence; for, at that moment, a well-directed blow from a powerful fist felled him to the ground.

"You cowardly blackguard!" cried the new-comer indignantly. "How dare you insult a lady! Stand up and let me knock you down again!"

But this the tramp wisely declined to do. He rolled over in abject terror, whining out an appeal for mercy, as the young man spurned him with his foot.

"I am indeed sorry that you should have been frigbtened by the fellow," said the stranger, lifting his hat and turning to Eveline.

The girl tried to thank him; but her emotion was too great, and putting her hand to her eyes she cried bitterly, while the young man looked on sympathetically, scarcely knowing what to do or say under such embarrassing circumstances.

"My parcel!" she exclaimed suddenly, thinking of her employer's property.

"Is here!" returned her new friend, picking it up, as he spoke, "and your purse too," he added, for in the struggle the tramp had dropped Eveline's shabby little portemonnaie.

Eveline took the purse, and then mechanically held out her hand for the parcel; but Ralph Vernon—such was the name of the gentleman who had come to her rescue—shook his head.

"I'll carry it," he said dubiously. "You don't think I am going to leave you in the lane after what has happened. Where are you going?"

"To North Lodge," faltered Eveline.

"You will find the Thursbys in great trouble," said Ralph Vernon, looking at her curiously.

"I know it," returned Eveline, coloring. "I have come from London to make up their mourning.

"Oh!" cried Ralph, a little surprised for he had imagined that she was some poor relative at least.

His manner was far more respectful than before, and Eveline felt so glad of his company that she soon brightened up, even laughing at the recollection of the tramp, as he crawled away on his hands and knees, and then suddenly sprang to his feet, flying off like the wind. It was too dark for Ralph to distinguish the girl's features plainly, but he could see that she was pretty, and that her figure was slight and graceful. Her voice, too pleased him; it was so sweet and refined.

This little dressmaker was a lady in every sense of the word.

"Pray, take my arm," he said kindly "I know you are very tired and upset by the fright that ruffian gave you."

"But you have the parcel to carry," returned Eveline, hesitatingly.

"I can manage both you and the parcel," he told her with a laugh.

"You never carried a parcel before in your life," observed Eveline, as she accepted his arm.

"How do you know that?" he asked good humoredly. "Well, if I have never made myself useful before, it is high time I began now."

They had left the lane and were in the highroad. Strange to say, the walk, which at the commencement seemed so intolerable to Eveline, now appeared marvelously short.

"I shall never see him again," she thought, with a faint sigh, as they parted at the gates of North Lodge, and it was with a very weary little face that she entered the presence of the lady of the house.

He had told her that Mrs. Thursby was a very amiable woman, but still Eveline was agreeably surprised at the kindness of her reception. She had been to many houses on the same errand before, but nowhere had she been treated with such consideration.

She was at North Lodge for several days, working away as if life had depended on it, and, as she worked, her thoughts were of the handsome stranger who had rescued her from the brutality of the tramp.

Once Ralph came up the carriage drive, and, peering from the window, she looked at his frank face and stalwart figure with a queer little ache at her heart.

He was making a call on the ladies of the house, and no doubt was a lover of—an accepted lover of—one of Mrs. Thursby's daughters, those graceful, fair-haired ladies who were so dignified in their grief at the loss of their father.

She felt relieved when her business was over, and she stood waiting in the little railway station for the train that was to carry her to London. There is no place under the sun more depressing than a country railway station, and our little heroine had repeatedly glanced at the clock, when a tall form darkened the doorway, and she looked up to see Ralph Vernon standing before her.

"So you are going back to town," he said, shaking hands with her as if they had been old friends. "I thought I would like to come and say good-by."

"How did you know?" she asked in surprise.

"Oh, Grace Thursby told me," he answered, carelessly, "she is one of the best girls in the world."

"She seems very nice to her inferiors," observed Eveline, a little bitterly, "I can imagine how charming she can be to her equals."

"Who is her inferior?" asked Ralph Vernon, quickly. "Not you, by Jove! She was saying to me that you were a perfect lady."

"Very kind of her, I am sure," said Eveline, haughtily; "only I am at a loss to understand how such a discovery came about."

"There, now, I have offended you," said Ralph, contritely: "but I am such a clumsy fellow."

"Not at all," returned Eveline, huskily. "It is very kind of your affianced wife to take such an interest in me."

"My affianced wife!" he said, with a hearty laugh. "I should like my brother John to hear you say that." He was very close to her now, as they sat on the hard bench. "Don't you know that I fell desperately in love with you that night when I rescued you from the tramp—at least, I think I did, although it was not till I saw you peep at me through the window that I knew how exquisitely pretty you were? Be my wife, and let me take care of you, not only on dark nights, but all your life."

But Eveline shook her head, for, although her heart prompted her to say "yes," she felt that she had no right to accept the sacrifice her impulsive and hot-headed lover was willing to make for her sake.

"It cannot be," she said, mournfully. "It is a mad, Quixotic idea. I know, from what I have heard Mrs. Thursby say, that you are wealthy."

"Hang the money!" exclaimed Ralph. "If you don't say 'yes,' I'll—I'll go lion hunting in Africa, and get torn to pieces by wild animals."

But even this terrible threat had no effect upon Eveline; she was firm in her determination to do right at any cost; she would not even tell him where she lived. And so they parted at the little railway station, and Eveline went back to London with less color in her cheeks than when she had left it, and a strange gloomy look in her beautiful eyes.

"It is all for the best," she thought; but life had never been so hard to bear.

The girl was brave—very—brave and wanted to do right; but the struggle between love and duty sapped her strength, and laid her on a bed of sickness, from which it seemed she would never rise.

During her illness she was continually calling upon Ralph Vernon, in such piteous accents that it drew tears from the eyes of those who heard the poor weak voice.

"Mother, I'm going to telegraph for Mr. Vernon," said Eveline's sister Nellie. "It is dreadful to look at her white face and glittering eyes, and to hear her calling upon his name from morning to night." "But who is this Mr. Vernon?" asked the poor mother, helplessly.

"I don't know," said Nellie; "but I found a card with his name and address on it, and I intend to send for him. It must be some one she cares for, and I don't mean to let her die if anything can save her."

"But perhaps he won't care to come" said the mother, with the prudence of age and experience.

"Then he can stay away," returned Nellie, her eyes wet with tears; and there was a look of pain in her sweet countenance, for her mother might be right, and what would become of poor Eveline if there should be no answer to the telegram!

The next two hours were anxious ones for Nell.

She stood up breathless with eagerness when someone knocked softly at the door. In another moment Ralph Vernon was in the room, and had grasped her by the hand as if she had been an old friend instead of a stranger.

"Is she——?" he could not finish the sentence, for he feared the worst.

"She still lives," returned Nellie, and, taking him by the hand, Eveline's sister led Ralph into the next room where the poor girl lay.

Her mother was kneeling at the side of the bed, but rose instantly and motioned to Ralph to take her place, and as he did so, Eveline opened her eyes and looked at him.

The sight of that beloved face had a magical effect upon Eveline. She put out her weak hand with a little cry that told more plainly than words how cruel her sacrifice had been, and, as he gathered her in his arms, her lover registered a stern vow that, if her life were spared, he would make her his wife in spte of all the world—herself included. And so he did, for Eveline recovered from that very hour, and directly she was able to leave her room, there was a quiet wedding, and the two started for the South of France, where they remained until Eveline had had recovered her health. They are an exceptionally happy couple, and Grace Thursby tells her husband that his brother Ralph's wife is the sweetest woman she knows.

How Meals are Served in New Orleans.

Few set tables. You are served in the morning before you get out of bed with a cup of coffee as good as can be found anywhere in the world, and some bread or little Creole pie-crust cakes. There is no trouble about your meals. There is a restaurant on every corner or so, or you can have your meals served hot, and at the most reasonable rates. As a general thing, however, they do not "go in heavy" for breakfast here. Your coffee is supposed to satisfy you until midday, when you take a slight lunch at some saloon. About 6 in the evening you sit down to the big meal of the day. Supper there is none, unless you drop in at the theatre, after which you eat something light. Thus, at least, you will find the natives doing, and those who have been visiting New Orleans each winter for years will tell you that it is the most comfortable way to live here and best suited to climate.

The Old Liberty Bell.

The old bell which Philadelphia has sent to the New Orleans Exposition has had a noteworthy history, apart from the one great deed which gave it world-wide fame.

In 1751, the Pennsylvania Assembly (a Quaker convocation, under the rule of the Penns) authorized a committee to buy a bell for the State House. In the letter sent by this committee to Robert Charles of London, ordering the bell, are these words:

"Let it be cast by the best workman and examined carefully before it is shipped, with the following words, well-shaped in large letters, around it, 'By order of the Assembly of the Province of Pennsylvania for the State house in the city of Philadelphia, 1752.' And underneath, 'Proclaim liberty through all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof.'"

As Philadelphia and the province governed by Penn was at that time literally the only spot in the world where absolute religious freedom prevailed, there was a singular pertinence and significance this inscription.

On the arrival of the bell it was hung, and rung to try the sound, but, having been badly cast, it cracked on the first stroke of the clapper. The good Quakers then resolved to re-cast it themselves, which they accordingly did in 1753.

In 1777, when the British threatened Philadelphia, it was removed to the little Moravian town of Bethlehem for safety. Even then, the people who were fighting so hard for their freedom invested with a kind of sacredness the bell which had rung out to proclaim Liberty not only to this land but to all the nations of the world who should seek shelter here.

It was broken several years later, and has since occupied a place in the old State House at Philadelphia, next to the room in which the Declaration was signed that made us a free people.

It has now been sent under a guard of honor by Philadelphia to the city of New Orleans, on a mission of good-will and friendship. If it will help to restore peace and brotherly feeling between the people of the two sections, and to remind them that they are one nation with the same heroic past, surely never before was metal cast for a nobler work.

How a Senator Obtained a Wife.

"Some of them (the reporters) have idle fancies," said the senator (Groome) "and there is no telling what they may lead to. Several years ago, when I was a candidate for Governor of my State, a gentleman in a neighboring town, where I chanced to be, said that he would oppose me on the ground that I was a bachelor. He was older than I was, not the best looking man in the world, and had never been married; so, to silence him, I said in a jest that I would bet him a hat that I could find a lady inside of three years who would marry me, and that was better, I was sure, than he could do. I succeeded in backing him down but I got into another difficulty. One of these newspaper chaps somehow or other got hold of what I had said—or, rather, what I hadn't said—and the first thing I knew I was published as offering to bet that I would be married within three years. A scribe in Baltimore, to get ahead of his fellows, ventured to give the name of the lady in that city to whom I was engaged. From my green and salad days to that time I had not thought of getting married, much less of making a wife of the lady mentioned. I happened to meet her, however, a day or two afterward—for I knew her—and asked her what she thought of the rumor. She told me laughingly that if it would aid in my election she would not contradict it until after I became Governor. I believe that it never was contradicted, and, as I subsequently married the lady, it is now too late to deny it. That newspaper reporter's fertile imagination secured for me the best wife in the world."—Washington Post.

CIVIL SERVICE NOTE.

One of the duties of Judson Macumber, an intelligent colored man employed in the Austin Post Office, is to cut a daily supply of kindling wood for the stoves in the building. A few days ago the supply was short.

'Why don't you chop up two or three days' supply of kindling wood, so we can always have some on hand?' asked Colonel DeGress, the postmaster.

'No, sah, I don't cut up no kindlin' wood for de day ahead. We am liable to hab our heads chopped off any minute, and I don't hab no kindlin' wood in de cellar for de Democratic niggah what gits my place.'—Texas Siftings.

A man who occasionally gets in a word edgewise can be called a sharp talker.

A little girl on seeing a peacock for the first time remarked what a beautiful bustle it had.

Horses in Battle.

War-horses, when hit in battle, tremble in every muscle and groan deeply, while their eyes show deep astonishment. During the battle of Waterloo, some of the horses as they lay upon the ground, having recovered from the first agony of their wounds, fell to eating the grass about them, thus surrounding themselves with a circle of bare ground, the limited extent of which showed their weakness. Others were observed quietly grazing on the field, between the hostile lines, their riders having been shot on their backs, and the balls flying over their heads and the tumult behind, before, and around them, causing no interruption to the usual instinct of their nature. It was also observed that, when a charge of cavalry went past near to any of the stray horses already mentioned, they would set off, from themselves in the rear of their mounted companions, and, though without riders, gallop strenously along with the rest, not stopping or flinching when the fatal shock with the enemy took place. At the battle of Kirk, in 1745, Major MacDonald, having unhorsed an English officer, took possession of his horse, which was very beautiful, and immediately mounted it. When the English cavalry fled, the horse ran away with its captor, notwithstanding all his efforts to restrain him; nor did it stop until it was at the head of the regiment of which apparently its master was commander. The melancholy, and at the same time ludicrous figure which MacDonald presented when he saw himself the victim of his ambition to possess a fine horse, which ultimately cost him his life upon the scaffold, may be easily conceived.

The Original Judge Lynch.

Who the original Judge Lynch was—if such a personage ever really existed—is a mystery. The earliest date assigned to this exhibition of a developed "iron conscience" is, according to the Galway Council Book, the year 1498, when an Irishman in municipal authority in the county of Galway, and named James Lynch, hanged his own son out of a window for despoiling and murdering strangers, "without martial or common law, to show a good example to posterity." Another ancestral derivation is to be found in one Lynch, who, about 1687, was sent to America to suppress piracy. As justice was not administered with much rigor or formality in the colonies, it is presumed that this Judge Lynch was empowered to proceed summarily against the pirates, and thus originated the term. The opinion which traces the expression to a Mr. Lynch, founder of the town of Lynchburg, in Virginia, is entirely unsupported by any authority beyond identity of name; but it is curious to remember that so long ago as the reign of Richard II. there was a current dogged distich: "First hang and draw; then hear the cause by Lydford law."

ENGLAND has its hands full just now. Dynamite at home and defeat abroad keep the British in a fever heat. Khartoum has fallen and the Arabian rebels defeated the English troops. The whereabouts of General Gordon are unknown and fears are entertained for his life. On February 18th, 1884, Charles George Gordon entered Khartoum with brilliant expectations of success, but ever since that time the history of 'Chinese Gordon' remained misty and dark.

IN less than four weeks President Cleveland will enter the White House as the first democratic president in twenty-four years. For the last few weeks he had interviews and consultations with the most prominent men and leaders of his party, no doubt for the purpose of hearing their opinions and advices on the vital questions of the great change. Cleveland is in no envious position. After the republican party has corrupted the administration in nearly all its branches, it becomes the task of the democratic party, with Cleveland as their leader to clense everything from its corruptness. For such a gigantic job the brains and energy of able and experienced statesmen are required and Cleveland no doubt will make it a main point to surround himself with such. At any rate we believe that Cleveland will be able to make himself master of the situation.

The Spring Elections.

On next Tuesday the local elections will take place in all townships and boroughs. The most important offices to be filled in the borough will be assessor, school directors and councilmen. In the township the most weighty office is that of supervisor. The choice of efficient election officers is alike important in boroughs and townships. It is the duty and privilege of all voters to see to it, that good men will be put into these places—men for whom they need not be ashamed to vote. There are plenty of suitable men and all that is necessary is to look around and make your selections carefully and intelligently. Just in these small local campaigns it is where "the office must hunt the man." But you can help along in the job and when you have made a pick sustain your choice by a full vote.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10, 1885.

Whatever may be the outcome of the Senatorial contest in Illinoise, the nomination of Col. William R. Morrison by the Democrats of the Legislature is something that reflects infinite credit upon them, as well as deserved honor upon its recipient. No man in Illinois had a better title to this mark of his party's regard, and no man in Illinois possesses superior qualifications for the great office of Senator. He is and always has been a most thorough worker for the success of his party locally and nationally, and the more desperate and determined have been the efforts put forth by the Republicans to defeat him in his own district, the greater have been the majorities by which he has been returned to his seat in the House. He is a man who works while his enemies sleep, and self-educated as he has been in the school of statesmanship, he stands to-day without a peer in his knowledge of our national needs, our commercial resources and the legislation requisite to regulate and develop them. He was as brave a soldier as ever drew sword in the cause of the Union, and the extreme modesty that has characterized his career since his retirement from military service, whenever allusion is made to his brilliant services in the field, show him to have been a true soldier and an exceptionally sensible man. Would that the country had more Col. Morrisons and fewer of those who live on the capital acquired by a very questionable military record.

PHONO.

Don Cameron so Ill that His Physicians Prescribe a Southern Tour.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Both the Pennsylvania senators have been in poor health the present winter and both have been advised by their physicians to leave Washington and seek a more genial clime. Senator Mitchell hopes to remain until the session closes, but Senator Cameron's health has failed so much during the last few months that his physicians insist that he must get away from the cares of state and the cankers of indoor life. He has recently had several hemorrhages and it is thought best by his medical advisers that he should spend the next few months in the south. He has accordingly made arrangements for a protracted visit to the land of flowers and sunshine.

General Grant's Mementoes.

WASHINGTON, February 7.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Sherman, from the committee on the library, reported a joint resolution accepting the offer made to the government by William H. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Grant of the swords, metals, bronzes, paintings and other articles of value presented to General Ulysses S. Grant by the various governments of the world as tokens of appreciation of his illustrious character as a soldier and statesman. The resolution expresses the thanks of Congress to Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Grant, and provides that the articles be placed in the charge of the Librarian of Congress, the Secretary of War, however, to receive them for safekeeping until a proper repository may be provided for them in the Congressional Library. The joint resolution was read three times and passed.

Storms in the West.

RAILROADS SUFFERING FROM BAD WEATHER.

KEOKUK, Iowa, February 9.—The railroads are all suffering. The cuts are filled with drifts. The Wabash east and west bound passenger trains are in a drift near Granger, Missouri. The afternoon train from the east came no further than La Harp, Illinois. The Rock Island has practically abandoned all trains, as has the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy, and Kansas City and Northern roads. The passenger trains, on these roads are either in drifts or side tracked. The Keokuk and St. Louis passenger trains are moving, but behind time. It will take one day with good weather to open most of the roads It is growing cold to-night.

HEAVIEST SNOW STORM IN IOWA.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 9.—The heaviest snowstorm of the season set in yesterday afternoon and prevailed until this forenoon. It was accompanied by a high wind which drifted it badly and has caused almost a blockade on our fifteen railroads. The same kind of reports are received from all parts of the state.

EXCESSIVE COLD IN THE WEST.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Feb.--This morning the thermometer indicated twenty-two degrees below zero in the lower city, and on the bluff it was thirty-one below. Most of the trains on roads running into Dubuque are abandoned and those which are not are hours behind.

BLIZZARD'S GETTING WORSE IN ILLINOIS.

JACKSONVILLE, Illinois, February 9.—The worst blizzard of the season began last night, accompanied by thunder and lightning. It has been raining all of to-day, and to-night at seven o'clock the thermometor stood at zero, but it was rapidly getting colder. All trains are delayed. The Chicago & Alton refused to take out stock trains for the north. At Franklin, in this county, a livery stable was struck by lightning last night, killing a horse. Two boys were knocked senseless and the entire village was shaken up by the shock.

THE STORM CONTINUING IN ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—The storm continues throughout Illinois, all trains are late and some have been abandoned.

The Snow King.

Great snow storms in the West interfere with all travel. The railroads in Illinois are blockaded, trains abandoned and the roads have been hiring thousands of men to shovel snow and clear the tracks. Trade is interupted and great inconvenience inflicted by the severe weather. Even under favorable circumstances all the managers of railroads say they cannot expect to get back to schedule time for two or three days and if the snow continues to drift it will be a week or more. The loss to the roads in business and cost of cleaning their tracks will be something enormous.

The Chicago and Alton has nearly a dozen trains snowed in. The Illinois Central has 9 passenger trains snowed in. An effort was made to-day to clear the tracks, but it drifted faster than it could be cleared.

Chronic Ulcers and Catarrh.

Mrs. Christian Zeile, aged sixty-three years, of Carondelet, St. Louis, Missouri, had a chronic ulcer on her leg which had been running for forty-three years. To use her own language, she had "tried all the doctors," but without perceptible benefit. Two of the most noted of this city advised her, as the only alternative from death, to have the leg amputated below the knee. She was troubled with an intolerable itching sensation, which only gave way to a distracting pain, which made death her daily wish. She could not sleep or rest. On March 21, this year, she commenced using Dr. Hartman's PERUNA, and to-day the leg is entirely healed, and the thankful old lady says she has slept more during the last three months than she did in the previous forty-three years.

Miss Alice Brady, of East St. Louis, Illinois, suffered from catarrh ophthalmia for five years. On April 27 she began treatment under Dr. Hartman. For a year before she was a patient of two of the best known oculists of this city, but they signally failed to help her. After one month under Dr. Hartman and his PERUNA, her eyes have almost entirely healed, and, according to her own statement, he has done more for her in this short space of time than the oculists did in the previous whole year. PERUNA, of course, did it.

Miss Annie Baker, First Avenue, Milwaukee, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending PERUNA. For years I have suffered from Asthma. I was induced to try PERUNA. It promptly relieved the paroxysms, and its continued use renders their recurrence less and less frequent. I am confident it will cure me completely."

Walker Brothers, druggists, Batavia, O., write: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN, Columbus, O., Dear Sir: Some two weeks ago I had a very peculiar case, and after a few questions were answered, I came to the conclusion it was catarrh of the stomach of the worst kind, of ten years' standing. The patient had consulted every physician far and near. I persuaded her to try your PERUNA and MANALIN. She had been having spasms every three or four days, and the fifth dose kept them off, and they have not returned since."

W. M. Griffith, Ashland, Ky., writes: "The large chronic ulcers of fifteen months' standing, are entirely healed. The swelling, pain and itching have all subsided, the leg is healed, and I am perfectly well. PERUNA is a wonderful remedy."

Miscellaneous News.

President-elect Cleveland has promised to attend a reception given by the Americus Club at Philadelphia next Monday, Feb. 16.

A little girl aged 6 years, in Heidleburg, Berks Co., died recently from the effects of a whipping administered by her school teacher, Josiah Groth. He will be investigated.

THE MOST REMARKABLE CASE OF ALL.—A gentleman writes to us from Philipsburg, Centre Co., Pa., that his little girl was horribly afflicted with scrofula. Her body was full of sores ears discharging continually thick yellow purtrid matter, and her eyes so swollen and inflamed as to be almost blind. One Bottle McDonald's Blood Purifier has to all appearances entirely cured her. Our neighbors as well as ourselves consider the cure remarkable.

A bonafide case. The address of the family can be obtained from the editor of this paper.

RUN OVER BY FORTY CARS.

ALLENTOWN, Feb. 6.—Casper Bear, of this city, while walking on the Lehigh Valley Railroad last evening, stepped out of the way of a passenger train and was struck by a coal train coming from an opposite direction, which cut him literally in pieces. The engine and forty-eight cars passed over his body. Bear was in search of work. His wife and five children are in Germany and one son lives in Catasauqua.

Preparations to Accommodate the People at President Cleveland's Inauguration.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Col. Wright, chairman of the sub-committee on public comfort of the inauguration committee, in a report to that committee states that there have been registered with the committee 1,492 rooms and accommodations for 13,034 persons, 52 halls with room for 832 persons and 11 hotels with accommodations for 1,440; also 15 vacant houses which can be furnished with cots and accommodations for 3,500 persons; also that 10 dining room, which can furnish meals at 50 and 75 cents each to 13,300 persons have been registered. He states further that up to date quarters have been secured through the committee for 11,612 persons, including military companies, clubs and private parties, that the average registration of rooms daily is about one hundred, and that the best quarters have not as yet been taken up.

An Avalanche of Waters.

GREAT FLOOD IN DELAWARE COUNTY—DAMS BROKEN AND HOUSES FLOODED.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb 10.—The heavy rains of yesterday and the melting snow on the hillsides raised Chester creek to an unusual height last night and caused considerable damage. The Lemi dam broke and let an avalanche of water escape, carrying destruction and consternation with it.

Burnley's mill at Rockdale, was flooded and about $3,000 worth of goods damaged. Riddle & Son's mill also suffered. The trestle work on the Chester Creek railway was carried away, cansing a suspension of traffic. Dwelling houses at Lemi and Rockdale were flooded to the second story windows, and the occupants were forced to escape by means of ladders. At uplands a portion of Crozer's mills was flooded and quite a loss sustained. A temporary bridge of the Philadelphia and Baltimore railroad near Upland was washed away.

GORDON MURDERED.

THE CAPTURE OF KHARTOUM EFFECTIVE BY TREACHERY.

ENGLISH TROOPS HURRYING TO THE SEAT OF WAR—ITALY JOINS ENGLAND IN THE SOUDAN OPERATIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Korti says: Colonels Wilson and Wortley, who were with the expedition to Khartoum, arrived here to-day. They made the journey from Gubat in four days. They brought the news of General Gordon's death. It was learned that one of the treacherous pashas among General Gordon's forces marched the garrison to the side of the town nearest Omdurman, saying that the rebel attack was expected at that point. In the meantime another traitorous pasha opened the gate at the other end and allowed the Mahdi's troops to enter and they easily captured the town. General Gordon was stabbed just as he was leaving the government house.

Reduced Rates to Inauguration

The Pennsylvania Railroad Making Popular Prices for the Great Event.

The inauguration of President-elect Cleveland on the 4th of March next promises to be a note-worthy event in the history of Washington. The citizens of the capital are working energetically and systematically to make the occasion a great success. In anticipation of an enormous throng of people, every effort is put forth to provide accommodations for all who may come. Beside the regular hotels and boarding houses, with which the city is well equipped, numbers of private families have agreed to entertain visitors, and sleeping quarters are being improvised in halls and such other buildings as are suitable. There will doubtless be ample accommodations for all, but those who desire to secure their lodging in advance can do so by applying to Col. L. P. Wright, chairman of committee on public comfort. Preparations for all the ceremonies are in the hands of competent committees, and every measure calculated to promote the comfort and pleasure of visitors will be carefully looked after

For the benefit of the thousands of people who will be drawn from points along its lines, the Pennsylvania railroad will sell excursion tickets to Washington from all stations on its system at greatly reduced rates. Its facilities for transporting passengers will be increased by the addition of special trains, which, with those regularly in service, will prove sufficient for all the demands of travel. The Baltimore and Potomac station, into which all the trains of the Pennsylvania system run, is situated on Pennsylvania avenue, in full view and within two minutes walk of the capitol, on the line of march of the inaugural procession and is easy of access to all the principal hotels and public buildings, and to any portion of the city by horse cars, buss, or carriage. The station is large, the facilities for handling incoming and outgoing trains are ample. Application should be made to local ticket agents of the Pennsylvania railroad and its branches for full and detailed information as to tickets and rates.

THE IRISH JAUNTING CAR.

There is no lack of roads in Ireland, and for the most part they are fairly good, though often extemely hilly. The car is on the whole excellently suited to them, and undoubtedly Blanconi, who introduced them, is one of the greatest benefactors of Ireland. Had the Irish been more punctilious in paying their debts, the Italian would have had his statue in every market town. I may remark in passing that he was originally a picture dealer in Clonmel, who, having seen the possibility of a fortune in the improvement of the communications, started the first of the cars from Clonmel to Cahir in the "Waterloo year." Queer stories are told of how he pushed his enterprise, particularly by getting up fictitious competition. The competition was carried rather far, when one of his drivers burst triumphantly into his office one day, begging half-a-crown of his honor to drink his honor's health, since "he had just bruck the heart of the brown mare" in the opposition conveyance by pushing her hard up the hill of so-and-so, the mare being, of course Blanconi's own.

The car, I repeat, is well adapted to the country; it is generally to be obtained on a few minutes' notice, and the drivers in default of relays, will take their passenger incredible distances. The man who drove me from Dunglow brought me on to Ardara from Glenties, where we had failed to find a change. I expressed a fear that I might be "planted" at Ardara should we be equally unfortunate there. "Sure, sir," said my friend, "and sooner than ye shall be bate I'll rowl ye on to Carrick myself, aye and to Killybege to the back of that." I may remark that the hills in some places were tremendous. Yet the Irish car has its obvious drawbacks. It shakes you even with tolerable springs on the smoothest roads, and where the roads are rough the jolting is terrible. It exposes one to the wind and the weather, though much may be gained by sitting the leeside. And, although seated either for four or six besides the driver, it will hardly carry more than two people with comfort if they have any quantity of luggage. When two share the expenses of a private car they are cheap enough. I have found the ordinary charge for posting to be 8d. per Irish mile; while the drivers seem generally to expect the other 4d. Indeed, they make themselves so agreeable that though the "tip" seems high it is difficult to grudge it them.—Cor. London Time.

MIDWINTER ADVERTISEMENT OF

Wm. Wolf & Son.

During this month our stock of winter goods must be reduced. Our space is limited and room must be made for Spring and Summer stock. To effect this we have concluded to reduce prices on such goods. We can not sacrifice first quality goods at the prices sometimes requested by customers, but we will do the very best we can and always guarantee that you will see that it was to your interest to buy.

Clothing we sell at cost, and some at half cost in order to sell out our entire stock. Overcoats, but one dozen left, good, not shelf-worn, at remarkably low prices.

All kinds of Rubber foot gear, a big stock. Rubber Boots worth $4 last year, now going for $2.75, and warranted at that.

Men's and Women's Underwear, large assortment, at all prices.

Bed, Buggy and Sleigh Blankets at bargains. Men's and Boys' Caps, Gloves, Mittens, and Half-Hose. Ladies' Double, Single and Breakfast Shawls, Gloves, Mitts, Hosiery. All these offered cheap and at bargains. Try us and be convinced. We will do our best to please you.

Very Respectfully,

WM. WOLF & SON.

The eucalyptus, or Australian bluegum tree, is now grown in every civilized country almost were frosts do not occur, but being by nature adapted to act as an evaporating machine, it will not destroy malaria or keep off mosquitoes if planted in a dry and not in a marshy soil.

A chestnut at the foot of Mount Etna is believed to be the largest and oldest tree in Europe. It is hollow, and large enough to admit two carriages driving abreast to pass through it. The main trunk has a circumference of 212 feet. This grizzly giant is said to measure 93 feet in height.

Until lately most of the supply of sugar in Denmark was imported. Now the material for sugar is provided within the boundaries of the kingdom. Six years ago the Danes made 2,600,000 pounds of beet-root sugar, and four years later the figures rose to 8,600,000 pounds. The production of 1882 exceeded that of 1881 by fully 2,000,000 pounds.

Items of Interest.

Infant mortality in France is computed at from 20 to 23 per cent. of the population.

A Paris company has submitted to the Pope plans for lighting up the dome of St. Peter's at Easter ceremonies with electric burners.

Near Danbury stands a white oak tree that is thought to be 200 years old. It is more than 100 feet high, and the circumference at the first limb is 13 feet.

Italy has to keep 5,363 persons under sentence of penal servitude for life. Prison expenses are $2,000,000 a year more than those for education.

A recent estimate, made by means of a very intricate testing apparatus, places the rate at which an electric dot travels over a telegraph wire at 16,000 miles per second.

A clean and perfect copy of John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progess" 1678, has just been added to the British Museum library. Only three other copies are known, and but two of these are perfect.

The wife of the jailer, at Oconta, Wis., was left on guard and armed for the day with a pistol, which her son doubted she had the courage to discharge. He made a test by putting on a prisoner's costume and whooping at her.

There is little of interest now to be found in Elba, Napoleon's island prison. All the relics of his stay there were long since carried away, and the place has sunk into the insignificance from which his presence raised it temporarily. The population is rather over 20,000.

The fire engines in Italian cities are still the same little hand pumps used in the beginning of the century; not a single steam fire engine exists on the peninsula, owing to the rarity of fires, but a movement is now on foot to introduce steam engines according to the American style.

Dr. Spitzka says the popular delusion that the human eye has an influence over insane people similar to that claimed for the same organ over wild animals, is one that is often ridiculed by the insane themselves. He adds that whoever attempts to utilize the notion will recognize its absurdity.

A dealer in cod-liver oil in marseilles advertises that his fish are caught in a safe and quiet harbor, where marine monsters cannot enter to frighten them into diseases of the liver. "They live there," he says, "in peace and comfort; their livers are healthy, and this is the reason why my cod-liver oil is the best."

That the cars upon the rails of certain railroads creep has been a matter for complaint which every one has heard. It will be greater news to many to know that the rails on sleepers creep, too, in the direction of greater traffic. On the St. Louis bridge proper the rails have been known to creep 260 feet in one year, and on the bridge approach 400 feet.

It is said that the sand used in the manufacture of mirrors is now used by a Paris company to make white bricks and blocks, said not to be injured by frosts, rain, etc., and to be very light, the specific gravity being only 1.50 to 1.85 of clay bricks. The sand is first strongly pressed by hydraulic power, and then baked in ovens at a very high temperature. The bricks are almost pure silica.

"Old Moses" is the name of what is thought to be the largest tree in the world. It stands in a grove near Tule River, in California. Although the top is broken off, it is 240 feet high and 12 feet in diameter at the broken part. The hollow of the trunk will hold 150 persons, and is hung with scenes of California, is carpeted and fitted up like a drawing room, with table, chairs, and pianoforte.

It has been discovered by experiments with dogs placed under the influence of morphia even to coma, that the hypodermic injection of solution of theine, the active principle of tea, is an almost instantaneous antidote, neutralizing the effect of the narcotic, and reviving the animal, after the action of the heart has become imperceptible. Cafeine possesses similar properties, but is less immediate in its operation.

Fredericksburg, Virginia, lays claim to the distinction of being the burial place of Edward Heldon, a contemporary and one of the pall-bearers of the immortal Shakespeare. A red sandstone slab marked the grave in St. George's churchyard until it was misplaced by Burnside, who cut a road through the burial ground and removed the stone to the Masonic cemetery, where it now lies under a locust tree. It was in Fredericksburg that the mother of Washington lived after she became a widow and reared her family.

—Brim full of Fresh Groceries which are being sold at exceedingly low prices at D. S. Kauffman & Co's grocery department.

—Jesse Wirt's new house near the mountian, north of town, is almost completed. Will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

—We hope the "Millheim Talent," referred to in Mr. Auman's notice will accept the challenge and give the matter at least a fair test.

—J. W. Russell, of Lewisburg, visited at his former home, Aaronsburg, a few days this week. He called on us yesterday when he returned to Lewisburg.

—G. W. Harter bought S. D. Musser property on Main Street, near the bridge. That fixes Wash as a permanent citizen of Millheim.

"Never too late to do good !" Then it is never too late to get good and cheap merchandise at D. S. Kauffman & Co's store, Millheim, Pa.

—Mr. Abs. Musser, of Haines township, expects to make sale of his live stock, farming utensils and household goods on Thursday, March 19th.

—Mr. Frederick Weaver, of Aaronsburg, departed this life yesterday morning at 4 o'clock. He was 83 years old. Obituary notice will appear next week.

—THE GREAT ZINGARI for toothache and neuralgia has no equal. Warranted. Only 15 cents at all drug stores. Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—The Susquehanna river, together with the North and West Branches, is frozen from mouth to source. A sudden break up would cause much damage.

—Mr. B. W. Shafer, of Miles township will make sale of his livestock and farming utensils, on his premises, near Wolfe's store, on Thursday, March 20th See posters.

—There must be a scarcity of tenant houses in this borough. We hear of several families, who have not been able yet to find a place to move in on the first of April.

—The magic lantern man did not show in the town hall last Saturday evening for want of patronage. These kind of exhibitions seem to have had their day in our town.

—Mr. A. A. Frank was confined to the house several days last week by a painful and large boil under his left arm. Glad to report that he is able to be at his post at Kauffman's store.

—Having just received a fine lot of new job type at this office, we are better prepared than ever to do fine job work and at very reasonable prices. Bring in your orders. We guarantee good work.

—We understand that a number of houses will be built in our borough the present year. That is what we want—a building boom, which makes a boom in work and increases the number of free holders.

—The ward meetings for the purpose of chosing delegates to the borough convention will take place on Friday evening. The delegates will meet in convention on Saturday afternoon to nominate a borough ticket.

—Mr. David M. Ertle, of Madisonburg, will sell at public sale on Tuesday, Feb. 17th, 1885, on his premises, some live stock and household goods. He expects to move to Kansas shortly after the sale.

—The weather record since last Sunday shows up quite a variety. Sunday was warm and sunny, Monday cloudy and rainy in the evening and most of the night, Tuesday morning and all day extremely cold and stormy.

—At the annual election of officers and directors of the Millheim B. & L. Association for 1885 last Monday evening all of last year's board were reelected, with the exception of one director, Mr. D. A. Musser being newly elected.

FOR SALE.—Six large mules will be sold at private sale by the undersigned. There are no better mules in the state and will be offered at reasonable prices. Apply to or address C. K. SOBER.
Sobers P. O., Pa.

—Henry Behm and Jeremiah Winkelblech, the administrators of the estate of Isaac Behm, late of Haines township, deceased, will offer at public sale on Friday, March 13th, the personal property of decedent. See Bills.

—On Friday, February 27th, Mr. John G. Musser, residing on North street, will make sale of his personal property. After the sale he will alternately live with his son, Mr. A. C. Musser and his daughter, Mrs. John Swartz.

—The U. B. Allworkers Society of the U. B. church of Millheim held their annual election of officers on the evening of Jan. 30th 1885, with the following results : Mr. F. D. Luse, President ; Mrs. Alice Luse, Vice President ; Mr. A. R. Alexander, Secretary ; Mrs. Kate Lamey, Treasurer.

—THE horrible nauseous worm-seed vermifuges and worm syrups have had their day. It's downright cruelty to compel a child to take them when McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders are so easy and pleasant to take that children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Can be procured at any drug store for the small sum of 25 cents.

—On last Friday evening a very pleasant hop took place at Musser's hotel. A good violinist accompanied by the piano furnished the music and the company tripped the light fantastic toe until the wee small hours The following were the lady guests from a distance : Miss Mary Austin, Miss H. Kate Shaffer, Miss Mabel Shaffer, Miss Nora Orndorf, Miss Emma Carner, Miss Belle Stiver, Miss Aldie Sankey, Miss Minnie Garman, Gentlemen : Joe Emerick, Dr. J. R. G. Allison, Wm. Holmes, R. J. Snyder. Wm. Decker, T. L. Kessinger, Fred Krumrine, Frank Dietrich, Violinist, Adam Lutz.

—Elegant Velvet Frames, both cabinet and card size, in great variety at the Journal Store.

—Mrs. Maria Stover, residing 2½ miles east of Aaronsburg, will make sale of her personal property on the premises, on Tuesday, March 24th, 1885.

FESTIVAL OF SONG.—A musical convention will be held in the Evangelical church of Millheim, commencing Monday, Feb. 16th and closing with two grand concerts on Friday and Saturday evenings following. Prof. P. H. Meyer, of Linden Hall will be musical director, and Prof. Harry J. Kurzenknabe, of Millheim, organist. Proceeds to go to the town clock fund. For further particulars see posters.

—Our county commissioners are doing their best to reduce the county debt and they have succeeded well in the last three years. The debt under their term dropped from $80,000 down to $29,000. In another three years it would likely be wiped out. But here comes the suggestion of the new Judge backed by the support of the Grand Jury, to have a new Court House built. How do the taxpayers like it ?

—There will be a "Spelling Bee" at the Pike school house in Penn township on Thursday evening, Feb. 12. at which time and place it is proposed to array the spellers of the Pike district, against the talent of Millheim. We trust this notice will serve both as an invitation and a challenge. A failure, on the part of the Millheimers, to respond, will be recognized as "more talk than cider."
W. T. AUMAN, Teacher.

NO GRIPING, NO DRASTIC PURGING.—Take two or three of McDonald's Improved Liver Pills for the first dose and follow with one pill every night at bedtime. So quietly and surely will they correct a torpid or disordered liver and regulate the bowels, that you will feel like a new person by the time you have used one box. Money returned to dissatisfied buyers.

—On Friday morning an infant child of Mr. Henry Breon, on North street died. The death of their little son is indeed a heavy bereavement to the parents, but at the same time it is accompanied by the consolation to know that it dwelleth with a host of angels around the throne of God, where there is no sorrow and no grief. Little John Tomlinson Breon was 5 months and 14 days old. The funeral took place on Sunday forenoon, when services were held in the Luth. church, Rev. Raver of the U. B. church, officiating. Many people were in attendance.

—J. C. Rote, Executor of the estate of Simon Rote, late of Aaronsburg, deceased, will sell the personal property of decedent on Saturday, Feb. 21st, at one o'clock, p. m.

—Rev. A. S. Baumgardner, of the State Constitutional Temperance Amendment Association of Pennsylvania will lecture at Centre Hall, Tuesday, Feb. 17th, at Coburn, Wednesday, 18th, and at Rebersburg, Thursday, Feb. 19th.

—Mr. Richard Brown, of Lock Haven, father of our townsman, Mr. Henry Brown, died at said place last Thursday morning, aged 83 years, 11 months and —— days. Mr. Brown and Mr. W. M. Hartman were over to attend the funeral, which took place on Sunday forenoon.

—The hard times do not seem to effect business at Spring Mills. Wm. Pealer seems to be getting along as if times were good. The secret however is that his prices are down to suit the times. His goods are all new and reliable.

MORE LIGHT.—The United Brethren have erected a street lamp at their church premises on Main street. This makes eleven lamps for Main St., while Penn street can only afford three and those are only burning occasionally, and poor North street is entirely in the dark. This is not as it should be. Let the business men and property holders on the latter two streets show a little enterprise and keep apace with Main street.

—On Thursday, Feb. 26th, Mr. Thomas Sholl, of Haines township, will sell at public sale on his premises, three miles east of Aaronsburg, his farm stock and implements. See large posters.

—On Monday forenoon, while Mr. Jared B. Kreamer with several assistants, was driving a lot of cattle along the pike, leading through the Gap north of town with the intention of taking them to market at Lock Haven one of the finest oxen in the drove became unmanageable and ran up the mountain near Philips Creek. The men went after and tried to chase the ox back, when he fell down over an high embankment breaking one of his legs and otherwise injuring himself. Mr. Kreamer had the animal shot at once, and went on to Lock Haven minus the ox.

—WHEN your children are threatened with croup or whooping-cough, beware how you lull them to sleep with cough syrups whose principle ingredients are morphia or opium. The natural effort of the lungs to expel the suffocating mucus is coughing. Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine contains no morphia or opium in any form, and by its stimulating actions on the kidneys, bowels, and pores of the skin, more than any other remedy, assists Nature in breaking up and expeling the worst colds from the system. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

—Mr J. W. Stam, who is a prosperous merchant at Maiden Rock, Wisconsin, in a letter to this office says, "It seems like old times to read the JOURNAL and think of all my friends." This sounds as if John still had a warm spot for this neck o' woods. He, of course, renewed his allegiance with this paper.

—The manifestations in business circles everywhere are unmistakable indications of the beginning for a gratifying renewal of activity. It is confidently expected that the year 1885 will be one of the most prosperous this country has ever seen. At least that is what many of our exchanges say and we will be only too glad to have it come true.

—A new local tariff has been inaugurated by the Adams Express Company on packages carried on the Pennsylvania Railroad accomodation trains. The reduction will be nearly twenty-five per cent. Since the company took charge of the local business on the Pennsylvania Railroad, some time since, the rates on packages were considerably increased. It is now the intention of the Express Company to so reduce these rates as to make them as low as they were when the baggage department of the railroad had charge of this branch of the business.—Ex.

—Mr. Jno. E. Jenkins, of Shamokin, who delivered temperance lectures in the M. E. church on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings with a view to organize a lodge of Good Templars, goes from here to Aaronsburg, where he expects to hold meetings this evening and to-morrow evening.

The Bellefonte Daily News commenting on Mr. Jenkins' address in that place, says :

"Mr. Jenkins is quite a young man but he delivered a surprisingly powerful and brilliant lecture and for an hour held his auditors' close attention. Indeed we considered his remarks in force of delivery and subject matter fully equal to any of the many excellent talks heard in Bellefonte recently, even by people of high reputation."

AN OLD LANDMARK GONE.—We are pained to announce the death of Mr. George Breon, an old and respected citizen and farmer of Gregg township, which occurred on Sunday morning last. Mr. Breon was born and raised in the "Mountains" where he spent the greatest part of his life. Of late, as his health be came impaired, he moved to his son, Jacob Breon, living on Jonathan Harter's farm, in Penn township. His sickness was a protracted one, but he bore it with christian fortitude and died after a year's affliction in the blessed hope of a glorious immortality. He reached the high age of nearly 83 years. His funeral took place last Tuesday forenoon, when his remains were interred in the Georges valley cemetery. Peace to his ashes.

—Last week's Lewisburg Saturday News has an account of Samuel Kieffer's terrible death on a saw mill in Kelly township, Union Co., which we partly copy below :

The most shocking accident ever recorded in Union county occurred on a saw mill in Kelly twp, on Wednesday last. As Mr. Samuel Keiffer was endeavoring to move a heavy stick of timber on the carriage, his foot slipped and he was thrown upon a fast revolving circular saw, mangling his legs, arm and body most horribly. His right leg was cut off below the knee and the whirling steel crashed through his body as far as the breast bone. He was thrown about six feet against Mr. Horace Bostion, who was horror-stricken at the sight of his friend's mangled and bloody body lying upon the floor quivering, with pulsating heart exposed. For a moment he stood in dumb stupification at the awful scene before him, his strong nerves giving way to the tenderer senses of the heart. The dying man was wrapped in blankets and an effort was made to take him to his home, but he expired before reaching there, just thirty minutes after the buzzing dumb dragon of death had cut the flow of life blood from his being.

The unfortunate man was about twenty-three years old and a brother of Mr. David Kieffer, who some two years ago was a victim of the Chillisquaque threshing engine explosion.

SUPERIOR LEATHER.—During our stay in Bellefonte, beginning of this week, we heard it acknowledged by the largest dealers there that A. J. Harter's leather from Millheim is considered to be the best in the market as to quality and finish. This is certainly a splendid recommendation and will not fail to give our neighbor, Mr. Harter a good trade. Call on him at his shop, on Penn street.

LOST.—Friday evening the 23rd, ult., a good woolen horse blanket, between Millheim and Spring Mills. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving the same at the JOURNAL office.

DIED.

On the 3rd inst., at Rebersburg, Mr. James Stover, aged 72 years, 8 months and 9 days.

On the 6th inst., at Millheim, John Tomlinson, infant son of Mr. & Mrs. Henry Breon, aged 5 months and 14 days.

On the 8th inst., in Penn township, Mr. George Breon, aged 81 years, 5 months and 7 days.

---FOR CASH---

Believing that the people of Centre county are fully awake to their best interests and that they have the intelligence to comprehend and the courage to recognize the means best calculated to bring about the most desirable results, we would most confidently and earnestly submit the following for your careful consideration :

That king credit has slain its victims by the thousands upon its extended battle fields is a fact beyond successful contradiction, and we would only ask you to call to your recollections your own observations, in proof of this fact, and, the pitiful appeals of those still under the crushing heel of the tyrant fall upon our ears with unmistable certainty and we would say, come, let us rush to their rescue by wielding the sword of justice and striking the monster down with a decisive blow and keeping him there by eternal vigilance. This can be done only by a system which pays as well as demands CASH on delivery.

This system we will adopt and put into operation on the twenty-sixth day of December 1884, after which we will buy and sell positively for cash and produce only and will name such figures on goods as will fully convince every intelligent person that it is to their interest to buy their goods where KING CREDIT finds no quarter, but where the

is radically and permanently established and strictly adhered to. Kindly inviting and soliciting the co-operation of every one in giving this system a thorough trial, we are

Very Respectfully Yours,

DREDGING FOR OYSTERS.

Men of the Pungies, and Their Methods of Work.

Hardships of Those who Bring the Toothsome Oyster from His Bed.

Each pungy engaged in dredging for oysters is provided with two dredges. They are iron instruments, with a chain netting made in the form of a pocket. The mouths of these pockets are provided with teeth for scraping up the oysters. The dredges have ropes attached to them which are fastened to iron winders placed amidships on both the port and starboard sides of the vessel. These winders are iron and provided with cranks. They are securely fastened to the decks. The dredger loves a stiff breeze. He cannot work to advantage without it, and if it blows a half gale he likes it the better. When the boat reaches the place where it is proposed to work, the two dredges are thrown overboard and hauled along the bottom by the vessel. Each dredge will hold two and a half bushels of oysters, but they are rarely drawn up full, except on an especially fine bed. The speed desired by the dredger is two miles an hour. The sails are therefore trimmed to keep this speed. Four men are required at each winder. When the dredge is supposed to have oysters in it four men seize the two iron cranks of the winder and begin the laborious task of winding the rope around the cylinder until the dredge is drawn up. It is hard work, I tell you, and often very cold. Sometimes the crank may feel like fire and take the skin off the hands. Every drop of water which strikes the decks and clothing of the men may be freezing, but they have got to work all the same. Oysters sell better in cold weather, and that is the time to catch them. The captain takes part with his men. His place is at the tiller to stear and have general direction of the boat. Woe to the men at the cranks when the ropes slip or the dredges strike a snag on the bottom. The cranks are snatched from the men and fly around with lightning speed, often resulting in broken arms, legs and lacerated bodies. I once saw a crank knock the top of a man's head off as clean as it could have been cut with a saw. Accidents from the crank are frequent. There is not a day passes but some poor fellow on the oyster grounds receives a wound from it.

The dredge boats go out from the harbors, where they spend the nights, at a very early hour in the morning, and work as long as they can see in the evening. They stop for no weather except a heavy gale or furious snow storm. They will often work in a young hurricance under a windward shore, where they can only carry a little piece of mainsail and jib. The men are compelled to be on deck in all kinds of weather and work like beavers. They get soaked with rain and have their clothes frozen on them. They sometimes have their ears, noses, hands and feet nearly eaten off by the frost and have to put up with uncomfortable sleeping quarters at night. As many of them have not got a change of clothing, they lie down in their frozen garments at night and thaw out. So this process of freezing through the day and thawing out at night goes on, and it is no wonder that many of them die of pneumonia and other maladies incident to so rough a life. It too often happens that when a man gets sick he is put ashore at some point by his captain, without money, and left to shift for himself as best he can But on the other hand, some of these fellows who come to the city with such tales are deserters from their vessels. The only time that dredgers have a picnic is during the prevalence of a storm so violent that the boats are compelled to lay in harbor. The men then lay about the cabins and forecastle smoking, sleeping and drinking, if they can get the liquor. The food on the dredge boasts is coarse, but substantial. They have coffee, corned beef, bread and cabbage. They also have soup.

The pay of a hand on these vessels is about $18 to $20 per month. Some few experienced dredging hands will get as high as $30 and $40 per month. Sometimes the crew agree to work on shares and divide the proceeds of the vessel-load of oysters among themselves as stipulated in their agreement—Baltimore Sun.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

'I don't suppose you know what hard times are,' said a man to one of the house servants of the Baroness Rothschild in Paris. 'Oh, yes, we do; for it was only this morning that I saw the Baroness and her daughter playing on the piano.'

Knew he was Appreciated.

A San Francisco paper tells of a well-known member of that community, now dead, who, when State Senator, was engaged in some very radical measures which sorely cut into many people whom he thought were in need of reform. They abused him thoroughly, but in his honesty he maintained the the fight strongly. A friend of his from the city visited him in Sacramento while the measures were pending.

'Well, what did they say of me in San Francisco?'

'They don't speak very well of you.'

'What did they say about me? That's what I want to know.'

'Well, they say very rough things about you. I don't care to——'

'Speak it out. Tell me how they talk.'

'They call you a liar, a scoundrel, a thief, an ignoramus, an idiot—everything they can think of that's bad.'

'Ah,' said the Senator, rubbing his hands in glee, and chuckling in perfect enjoyment, 'they feel me, my boy, they feel me!'

The bill collector's work is always dun before he gets his pay.

'Have you any 'home ties?'' asked a young lady of a young man whose appearance indicated dissipation. 'Oh, yes (hic), home ties, lots of 'em; g-g-got a mother-in-law.'

The new waiter at the Chatham street restaurant asked Billy Maglory, who was just about to tackle a beefsteak. 'Are you superstitious?' 'No'; why do you ask?' 'I've got no particular reason except that you are the thirteenth man that used that napkin to-day.'

Ex-Governor Smith, of Georgia, having said that he had seen Henry Ward Beecher dining recently, was asked whether the man of God seemed hearty. 'Henry?' replied the Georgian. 'Why if he had been at the miracle on the mount there wouldn't have been any basketfuls left.'

Women have a happy faculty of uttering pleasant things of each other. 'Why dear, said one to a friend, 'do you know that young Smith and Laura Jones have quarreled, and now a great gulf separates them?' 'Yes,' replied the other, 'they are in the same position as her ears. A great gulf separates them too.'

A young Yorkville physician, who has just established himself and has very little practice, is noted for his braggadocio. One of the older physicians meeting him on the street, recently, asked him how he was coming on. 'I've got more than I can attend to,' was the boastful reply. 'I had to get out of my bed five times last night.' 'Why don't you buy some insect powder!' asked the old doctor.

DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and AGUE Or CHILLS and FEVER, AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS' Vegetable Balsamic ELIXIR

For the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are often drying a nature so as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
